

February 2006Initials02/09/06

This is a sample chronological log. This is where you record your daily activities on your farm. You must record the date of the activity, the initials of all persons involved in the activity and the description of the activity. Again, this is just an example of how your daily activities would be recorded. Refer to your Producer Record Manual for more details. If you have speech recognition installed on your computer this is an excellent place to use it. Using speech recognition to record your daily activities in this chronological log works very well. You will find this speech recognition feature under Tools on the main menu. After selecting 'Speech' a command bar will appear. Select dictation then turn on your microphone and start dictating. To close the command bar for speech recognition right click on the command bar and select 'Close language bar'.

JG-RG-----

02/10/06

This is a sample chronological log. This is where you record your daily activities on your farm. You must record the date of the activity, the initials of all persons involved in the activity and the description of the activity. Again, this is just an example of how your daily activities would be recorded. Refer to your Producer Record Manual for more details. If you have speech recognition installed on your computer this is an excellent place to use it. Using speech recognition to record your daily activities in this chronological log works very well. You will find this speech recognition feature under Tools on the main menu. After selecting 'Speech' a command bar will appear. Select dictation then turn on your microphone and start dictating. To close the command bar for speech recognition right click on the command bar and select 'Close language bar'.

RG-JG-JG-HE-RW-
DF-TR-SV-BV-VG02/11/06

This is a sample chronological log. This is where you record your daily activities on your farm. You must record the date of the activity, the initials of all persons involved in the activity and the description of the activity. Again, this is just an example of how your daily activities would be recorded. Refer to your Producer Record Manual for more details. If you have speech recognition installed on your computer this is an excellent place to use it. Using speech recognition to record your daily activities in this chronological log works very well. You will find this speech recognition feature under Tools on the main menu. After selecting 'Speech' a command bar will appear. Select dictation then turn on your microphone and start dictating. To close the command bar for speech recognition right click on the command bar and select 'Close language bar'.

AB-ZX-CD-WS-EF-
MK-GH-PL-IJ-ASMarch 2006*Initials03/01/06

This is a sample chronological log. This is where you record your daily activities on your farm. You must record the date of the activity, the initials of all persons involved in the activity and the description of the activity. Again, this is just an example of how your daily activities would be recorded. Refer to your Producer Record Manual for more details. If you have speech recognition installed on your computer this is an excellent place to use it. Using speech recognition to record your daily activities in this chronological log works very well. You will find this speech recognition feature under Tools on the main menu. After selecting 'Speech' a command bar will appear. Select dictation then turn on your microphone and start dictating. To close the command bar for speech recognition right click on the command bar and select 'Close language bar'.

HG-RG-HG-JG-GR-
EG-ET-JT-WW-WQ